

Detective Pat Gallagher at police headquarters, 26th and Avenue C, stated he knows Williams outfit as the "blackhand bunch" - just a nickname.

On inquiring in neighborhood about Williams woman who lives above saloon at 30th & Broadway found she keeps a disorderly house and is known as a notorious character.

Mrs Williams and Mrs Gibson are not on good terms. Mrs. Williams has no use for her sister and wants nothing to do with her.

G.T.P. 9/3/26

Lewis C. McClurg, 333 Spring St., Trenton, N.J., agent during time Mrs. Easton rented place. He said she came there about 1909 and remained until early part of 1914. In financial difficulties before she moved away and made an assignment for benefit of creditors. He considers her unreliable. Never knew her to run a disorderly house, altho on one occasion police went there and arrested a Mrs. Burton and some Italian who were occupying one of her rooms. He knew Mrs. Burton as a woman of low morals as she had been a tenant of his and been put out because she had too many men calling on her.

Elmer Rue, an auctioneer of 111 So. Warren St., Trenton, knew Mrs. Easton; that she bid in some goods at a sale at Morrisville, Pa., and took articles away without paying for them. Lloyd Bond, an attorney of Morrisville, knows the details.